Making an Impact

“One of the great things we get to be a part of is flying the eye doctor team from Christian Blind Mission around the country to their many clinics in the bush. I flew them to four places over a three-week period here; they performed surgeries for cataracts and many other things. There is a lot of River Blindness here which is treatable if caught early enough. They were so busy that at one airstrip they even had to bring one of the patients along in the Landcruiser and finish up the work in the front seat of the vehicle as I loaded the airplane. It was quite interesting, as they were installing an eye prosthesis.”

—Jon Cadd, MAF Chief Pilot, East Democratic Republic of Congo

Information Technology?

Mission Aviation Fellowship..What does IT have to do with flying?

Airplanes take missionaries, aid workers, and supplies where they are needed most.

The time saved using air travel is invaluable.

IT services, such as email, phones and the Internet, provide a means of communication and research which also save time and multiply effectiveness.

The MAF satellite Internet systems in EDRC provide these opportunities to MAF, other missionaries, Christian universities, medical workers, and many others.

The Road to DRC

The last couple of months have been filled with appointments, letters, phone calls and emails, as we build our team of ministry partners. I miss IT projects. Some days DRC seems so far off!

Recently we made a trip to Omaha and western Iowa for some meetings. We had a good time sharing and spent a day at the zoo for Stephanie's birthday. We stayed at a camp a couple of nights where Gabriella and Larinda were excited to sleep on bunk beds.

Right now we're working on scheduling meetings with several individuals and small groups. On October 24th we have our International Dinner at church. We're also working out the details of a trip to Kansas, Missouri, and Arkansas in November. Please pray that we get all the details worked out and have many opportunities to share about God's outreach through MAF.

Prayer Requests

Praise that we have reached one-third of our monthly support goal!
 For safety and effectiveness on our trip to KS, MO, and AR
 For the health of Stephanie and baby #4 (due May 26th)
 For resolution to our housing situation, as we hope to move out of our house and find a renter
